READER-QUESTION: They gave out tissues right in front of me, but I didn't receive even one pack. (Hyogo prefecture, Megu)

That was surely because those weren't meant for people of Megu's age. Do you know why tissues are distributed? It's not a volunteer service for people with allergies. They are distributed in order to have people see the advertisement hidden inside them. And you can't give advertisements to just anyone. They are to lure the people receiving the tissues. Mainly there is a lot of advertisements not meant for people under eighteen to see, like cabaret clubs, consumer credits, gyms and real estate, it's hard to get those, right? There's no meaning to give them to students for whom the advertisement is not meant. I used to get them a lot between the ages of twenty to twenty-five. But after I turned twenty-eight I was avoided by the distributors. Growing old is a heartless thing.

READERS QUESTION "Natsumi-san, please tell us your favorite characters (place 1 to 3)" (Hokkaido, Meri-san and others)

I'm sorry, but I can't decide. I can't explain it properly, but my manga characters are like my own children. I thought this would be an exaggeration. But over those four years, without being separated from those characters even once, thinking a lot about them, laughing and crying together, I now can call them a part of my live. Every character. That's why everyone is cute. Well of course, my loving attachment to the main characters is especially strong... or is it? Only if a new character appears, I weirdly enjoy drawing him. It's like I got a tendency of becoming careless with the other characters. In this Shibuya fight arc it was especially fun to draw Zen <3 I love drawing the bad guys (laugh)

READERS QUESTION "There was a person calling this first-class dirty jokes. What level is this?" (? prefecture; T-chan)

The dirty jokes that appear in Switch Girl, are almost all on an understandable level. First-class. While serialization I obtained level three. By the way, my assistants are level five. People who want to become my assistants definitely have a dirty jokes test. If they don't pass they won't become my assistant no matter how talented they are! (laugh)
